

I do not believe the CW requirement for General and Extra Class Ham Radio license should be removed. If the question is that it limits hadicaped individuals from obtaining HF privliges beyond Tech Plus, then I believe there should be a provision for those types of handicaps that are unable to send and recieve code to be tested in some other way. However, "Handihams" have been upgrading and operatiog for years using CW. Also, I think one would be suprised at the "abilities" of handicaped Hams.
